

Taxation of Business Entities

Overview

Certain tax issues arise when distributing assets, including cash from a business. The type of entity the business is organized as largely determines what the tax consequences will be. C corporations, S corporations, partnerships, and sole proprietorships each have certain business advantages and disadvantages and are taxed differently. A limited liability company (LLC) can elect whether it will be taxed as a C corporation, S corporation, partnership, or, if it has only one member, a sole proprietorship. A sole proprietorship is disregarded as an entity for tax purposes, and all property of the business is owned by the sole proprietor.

Taxation of Income and Transfers of Cash or Property from Various Business Entities

	C Corporation	S Corporation	Partnership/LLC*
Income Taxation in General	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Corporation pays income tax if it has taxable income. • Compensation paid is deductible, if reasonable. • May be subject to Corporate Alternative Minimum Tax (CAMT) due to increase in insurance cash value and receipt of death proceeds. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • S Corporations do not pay income tax. All earnings and losses are passed through to the shareholders. • Flow through amounts are reported on shareholder Form K-1; income taxable to Shareholder but not subject to FICA. • Compensation paid to an employee is subject to FICA. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Partnerships do not pay income tax. All earnings and losses are passed through to the partners. • Partners pay self employment tax on their share of partnership income, assuming they are active in the partnership.
Cash Distributions	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Dividends are taxable at 15% (currently) to shareholder to the extent of earnings and profits (E&P). • Dividends are not deductible. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Distributions from AAA (if former C corp) - not taxable but reduces shareholder's basis. • Distributions from E&P (if former C corp) does not reduce basis but is taxable to shareholder. • Capital Gain – distributions in excess of basis are capital gain. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Return of Basis – not tax to partner, but his/her basis is reduced by distribution. • Capital Gain – distributions that exceed partner's basis are subject to capital gain.

	C Corporation	S Corporation	Partnership/LLC*
Distributions of Appreciated Property – Business Taxation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Gain (FMV – Basis) is taxable to corporation. • Property distributed as compensation is deductible, if reasonable. Gain is offset by deduction. • Property distributed as dividend, is nondeductible to corporation. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Gain (FMV – Basis) is taxable to shareholders. • Property distributed as compensation is deductible, if reasonable. Gain is offset by deduction. • Built-in gains (recognized from sale or distribution of prior C corp property) taxable to S corp at highest C corp rate. 	Gain is generally not recognized on distribution; it is recognized at the time of sale by distributee partner.
Distributions of Appreciated Property – Owner / Employee Taxation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Taxable amount is property's FMV. • If dividend, taxable at 15% (currently). • If compensation, taxed as ordinary income at the shareholder's marginal rate. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Compensation – taxable at shareholder's marginal rate. • Distributions from AAA (if former C corp)- not taxable but reduces shareholder's basis. • Distributions from E&P (if former C corp) does not reduce basis but is taxable to shareholder. • Capital Gain – distributions in excess of basis are capital gain. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Gain generally not recognized on distribution; it is recognized at the time of sale by distributee partner. • AMT may be recognized by partner. • Partner's basis is reduced by distribution.

* A limited liability company (LLC) may elect to be taxed as a corporation (C or S), partnership, or, if it only has one member, a sole proprietorship. Usually, an LLC elects to be taxed as a partnership.

 Gain on appreciated property is its Fair Market Value (FMV) in excess of tax basis (net cost).

 Gain on appreciated property is usually capital gain; but, a life insurance policy with appreciation will yield ordinary income, plus, if the policy is sold, a capital gain to the extent the sales price exceeds the policy's surrender value.
